

Takuma Yasui's Research Notes in "Yasui Papers": the Autograph Digest Part (II)<sup>(1)</sup>

Tatsuro Kanai

I. Introduction

Takuma Yasui (1909-1995) is famous as a pioneer of general equilibrium theory in Japan. We now focus on his autograph research notes, in "Takuma Yasui's Library, Papers and Correspondence" ("Yasui Papers"), maintained by Saitama University. These research notes<sup>(2)</sup> comprise 32 notebooks<sup>(3)</sup>, and some papers inserted into each notebook. They consist of many digests from papers, books and dictionaries, and partly of his unpublished drafts and his miscellaneous memoranda.

This paper is the second sequel of Kanai (2014), which previously dealt with the notes I-VIII for the first part. As the second part, this paper shall consider the notes IX-XXII. Our papers particularly focus on the autograph digest part of those notes, and are oriented to elucidate the course of his life as an economist in light of his readings. Generally, the digest by some writers can be regarded as a reflection of their interests, which are more extensive than what is in their works to be appeared in the public. In this sense, Yasui's transcriptions in these notes should figure out the background for his works, not only as the vestiges of his general equilibrium theory.

The previous researches on "Yasui Papers," sponsored by several grants<sup>(4)</sup>, had already constructed a web search system over almost all the materials in "Yasui Papers" on the web pages of Saitama University<sup>(5)</sup>. However, each article transcribed by Yasui in the notes has never been listed. The following section shall list all the titles which Yasui mentioned in the notes IX-XXII as the second part. The rest section shall be followed later.

- (6) As for the serial numbers, we in this and the later papers will have corrected mistakes in Kanai (2014) to be consistent (we wrongly counted the same books or papers separately which were found in a later part, so now as a result omit 3 serial numbers). In Kanai (2014), we should have intermingled nos. 107, 122 and 137, to nos. 87, 80 and 119 respectively. And we should have included "(XIX) 40300-40301 (2 pages)" in no. 25, "(IX) 30393-30394 (2 pages)" in no.47, and "(IX) 30391 (2 pages)" in no.158.
- (7) The MS number of the page corresponding to 30534 seems to have been wrongly numbered as 30544.
- (8) Items nos. 237 to 242 are intermingled and discussed.
- (9) This item and the next seem to be intermingled and discussed.
- (10) In this volume, whose cover page says "Ethude sur Walras et Pareto," Yasui definitely discussed Walrasian general equilibrium theory, quoting Walras, Pareto, Amonn, etc. over many pages, and for some parts Yasui developed them further. However, we cannot list them as the materials of digests in the same way how we do for other volumes. Both the quotations from such economists and Yasui's remarks are fragmentary and intermingled.
- (11) This title should have been not "Resoutiante" which the original article says, but "Bezoutiante" which Yasui rightfully referred this title as "Besoutiante" in his notes.
- (12) The front page of vol. XXI says "Frobenius."
- (13) This pamphlet was written under the pen-name of "Primus" by Lucien Laurat.
- (14) Yasui wrote the author's name of this article as "I. Schur," but which should rightfully be as "J. Schur."
